

1. Run
2. Lose
3. Get Trashed by the White House

“A senior administration official said Deeds badly erred on several fronts, including not doing a better job of coordinating with the White House.”

Washington Post, 10/23/09

“If anything, Axelrod said, Corzine should be thanking Obama for preventing him from losing even worse to Christie.”

New York Post, 11/5/09

“Hill sources say White House chief of staff Rahm Emanuel has blamed Coakley ... for failing to see Brown’s surge in time to stop it.”

Politico, 1/19/10

Liberals are risking their careers by supporting a big government health care plan that the country can’t afford, and that polls show the American people don’t want. Now they’re suffering the consequences — and taking the blame from the administration.
